

REFERENCES

- [1] Analytical data done by Dialog Axiata PLC 2016
- [2] George Koutitas, “A Review of Energy Efficiency in Telecommunication Networks”, Telfor Journal, Vol. 2, No. 1, 2010, pp 02 – 07
- [3] Maurizio Rossi, Alessandro Toppano and Davide Brunelli, "Real-time optimization of the battery banks lifetime in Hybrid Residential Electrical Systems"
- [4] Stephen S. Eaves, “Lithium-ion Batteries in Telecom Hybrid Power Systems”
- [5] Arthur D. Sams, “Various Approaches to Powering Telecom Sites”
- [6] Brunarie, J. ; Myerscough, G. ; Nystrom, A. ; Ronsen, J., “Delivering Cost Savings and Environmental Benefits with Hybrid Power”
- [7] Vincent M. Byrne, D & Patrick K. Ng, “Behaviour of Systems Mixing Parallel Strings of Lithium-Ion and Lead-Acid Batteries for Telecommunications Applications”
- [8] Yasha Parvini & Ardalan Vahidi, “Maximizing Charging Efficiency of Lithium-Ion and Lead-Acid Batteries Using Optimal Control Theory”
- [9] M Muselli, G Notton, P Poggi, A Louche, “PV – hybrid systems sizing incorporating battery storage: an analysis via simulation calculations”
- [10] G.M. Amarakoon, “Design of an optimum power solution for telecom base station sites”, Degree of Master of Science in Electrical Engineering, Department of Electrical Engineering, University of Moratuwa, Sri Lanka, 2016
- [11] Ashok J., Bhaskar R., Sriram N., janani R., Sneha R., “Powering Cellular base Stations”, Telecom Center of Excellence (RiTCOE), Indian Institute of Technology, Madras, 2012
- [12] www.ceb.lk