
REFERENCES

- [1] Y. Nishiyama, Uto N, Sato C, Sakurai H, (2003). Int J Adhesion and Adhesives, 377-399
- [2] Nishiyama Y, Sato C, (2005). Adhesion - Current Researches and Applications. 555-559. Wiley, Weinheim.
- [3] Ishikawa H, Seto K, Shimotuma S, Kishi C, (2005). Adhesion and Adhesives, 193-201.
- [4] Cognard Y, Créachcadec R, Maurice J, Davies P, Peleau M, Da Silva L.F.M, (1977). Adhesion Science and Technology, 24-37
- [5] White S R, Sottos N R, Geubelle P, Moore J, Kessler M, Sriram S, Brown E, Viswanathan S, (2001). Nature of Microspheres, 409-794
- [6] Trask R, Williams H, Bond I, (2007). Shock absorbing property with cell formation. 23-34
- [7] Kessler M, Sottos N, White S R, (2003). Composites Part A, 743-749
- [8] Magnus J, (2010). Thermally expandable microspheres prepared via suspension polymerization – synthesis, characterization, and application, 23-45
- [9] Dias A C, (2002). DIAB Inc. Technical Information for Divinycell Foam. 87-89
- [10] Rohm A G, (2002). Technical Information for ROHACELL Foam. 56-58
- [11] Marsh J, (2002). Fire-safe composites for mass transit vehicles. Reinforced Plast. 34-41
- [12] Massimo T, Giovanni B, (1997). Progress in Organic Coatings. 32-34
- [13] Young-Wook Kim, Shin-han Kim, Hai-Doo Kim, Chul B, (2004). Journal of Material Science (564 – 567)
- [14] Vaikhanski L, Steven R, (2003). Composites: Part B. 1245–1253
- [15] Michal S, (2006). Polyurethane and Rubber Tires: A Comparative Overview. 163-171. Thombert.
- [16] Juan S, Vélez H, Sandra, Velásquez R, Diego H, Vásquez R, Patricia C. (2016). Application of expandable polymeric microspheres in the preparation of materials. 53-69